Campus Features – The Banyan Tree

Date: 23-01-2017

The final finishing touches to a campus often comes from the landscape and the landscape is also the slowest to mature. Take for example the Banyan tree that is to be a centrepiece of the academic area. While growing steadily, it certainly has several years before it can exert its grandeur on the campus environment. The same with the 20+ trees planted in the Samwad area, or the 12 Neem trees in the Vidhyachaya area. Imagine the atmosphere in another decade.

Can you spot where the Banyan tree is?
